Yonkers resident self-publishes 3rd book, 'Everything Necessary'

YONKERS: City resident Hope Hollinsworth Coaxum has self-published her third book, "Everything Necessary," about a young girl who has taken all the necessary steps to prevail within the legal system as a district attorney, but who begins to stumble as she climbs the ladder of success. She becomes involved in a world filled with deceit, danger and murder.

Hollinsworth Coaxum began writing and publishing her books after the death of her son, who was killed in Iraq on Sept. 9, 2007. She says her writing has given her the opportunity to reach out to a young and adult audience.
